International transfers

Your personal data or the personal data of any of your related persons may be transferred outside the UK and the European Economic Area. While some countries have adequate protections for personal data under applicable laws, in other countries steps will be necessary to ensure appropriate safeguards apply to it. These include imposing contractual obligations of adequacy or requiring the recipient to subscribe or be certified with an 'international framework' of protection. Further details can be found in the 'using My Personal Data' booklet.

International corridors

Where you may have international business needs, we will share information relating to you and your products and accounts, including transactional information, with Banco Santander S.A., Banco Santander group members and other partner banks who may be based in other countries, to better support your international operations and decide whether to offer you other products and services. For more information on who those other Santander group members or other partner banks are, you can ask your relationship contact point. The data shared will include information on your financial position, auditable accounts, your related persons and any information held about you or your related persons by us, such as information about transactions carried out on your accounts, products and services with us and information regarding any other products and services that you receive from us. we will do this on the basis of your legitimate interests. If you do not want us to share your or your related persons' data in this way, you can speak to us.

We may share and sell such anonymised data including in an aggregated format, within and outside of the Santander group of companies, for statistical analysis, research and other business purposes. For example, sharing information about general spending trends in the UK to assist in research. The law says this is not considered to be personal information after it has been anonymised and/or aggregated.

Identity verification and fraud prevention checks

The personal data we've collected from you at application or at any stage will be shared with fraud prevention agencies who will use it to prevent fraud and money-laundering and to verify your or any of your related persons' identity. If fraud is detected, you could be refused certain services or finance in future. We may also search and use our internal records for these purposes. Further details on how your personal data or the personal data of any of your related persons will be used by us and these fraud prevention agencies, and your and your related persons' data protection rights can be found in the 'using My Personal Data' booklet. We may also hold all personal data and other information you give to us to undertake periodic due diligence and identification checks which banks are required to undertake to comply with UK legislation and regulation.

Credit reference checks

If you are an individual and apply for any products and services (including as part of a periodic review of your business) or if any of your related persons is to guarantee or provide any other assurance in relation to any product for which you apply we'll perform credit and identity checks on you or your applicable related person at your or his/her home and business address with one or more credit reference agencies. To do this we'll supply your or his/her personal data to the credit reference agencies and they'll give us information about you or your related person.

When we carry out a search at the credit reference agencies, they'll place a footprint on your or his/her credit file. A search may either be:

- a) a quotation search where a soft footprint is left. This has no effect on your or his/her credit score, and lenders are unable to see this;
- b) a hard footprint where you've agreed/requested us to proceed with your application for credit. (This footprint will be viewable by other lenders and may affect your or your related person's ability to get credit elsewhere. Please note that a credit search is not carried out if you or your related person are under 18.); or

- c) an identity check where a record of this search is left.

We'll also continue to exchange information about you or your related person with credit reference agencies while you have a relationship with us. The credit reference agencies may in turn share your or your related persons' personal information with other organisations. The personal data shared with the credit reference agencies will relate to you, your business and/or your related person. Details about your application (whether or not it's successful) will be recorded and we'll give details of you, the business and its proprietors, and your accounts and how you manage them to credit reference agencies.

If you or your related person do not repay any debt in full or on time, the credit reference agencies will record the outstanding debt and supply this information to others performing similar checks, to trace your or his/her whereabouts and to recover debts that you or your related person owe or owes. Records remain on file for 6 years after they are closed, whether settled by you or defaulted. A financial association link between joint applicants or between you and any named business partner or individual will be created at the credit reference agencies. This will link your and their financial records and be taken into account in all future applications by either or both of you until either of you apply for a notice of disassociation with the credit reference agencies. For more information, a leaflet called 'your application and credit scoring' is available on request. We will seek confirmation from the credit reference agencies that the residential address of any director that you provide is the same as that shown on the restricted register of directors' usual addresses at Companies House.

If you apply for a secured product, we may pass any information and documentation relating to this secured product to any persons with a legal or equitable interest in the security, whilst the product remains open.

The identities of the credit reference agencies, and the ways in which they use and share personal information is explained in more detail in the Credit Reference Agency Information Notice ('CRAIN') document which can be accessed via any of the following links:

- experian.co.uk/crain
- equifax.co.uk/crain
- transunion.co.uk/crain

Automated decision making and processing

Automated decision making involves processing your or your related persons' personal data without human intervention, to evaluate certain personal aspects about you or them (known as profiling). In particular, we may analyse or predict (among other things) your or their economic situation, personal preferences, interests or behaviour. This could mean that automated decisions are made about you or them using your or their personal information. For example, we might analyse certain customer demographics, accounts, products or services and account behaviours (such as payments to other providers) and look at details of transactions relevant to your accounts. We may also analyse events such as the maturity dates of your accounts and opening anniversaries. In some instances we'll use automated processing and decision making, where relevant, to decide which of our other products or services might be suitable for you.

We'll also conduct behavioural scoring, including by looking at the accounts, products or services you already have with us and how they are being used, such as account turnover, arrears and other indications of financial difficulties. Where searches are carried out against publicly available data sources and credit reference agencies, these searches may appear on your or their credit report, but they will not affect your or their ability to get credit. You or they may have a right to certain information about how we make these decisions. You or they may also have a right to request human intervention and to challenge the decision.

Open Banking

Where you have opted in for this service, we may use your or your related persons' personal data to link your accounts from other providers to Santander Mobile Banking, in order to provide you with an aggregated view of your accounts. As part of this service, we may collect and display personal information from your Santander banking relationship that you have requested to be visible to you within Santander Mobile Banking. This personal information may include your name, address, email address and phone number, Biometric data, and information relating to your financial circumstances (including your bank account details and details of your banking transactions). We may also collect and display your personal information from your other banking and financial providers as well as other providers that we may introduce into the service that you have requested to be visible to you within Santander Mobile Banking. This may also include information relating to your financial circumstances (including your bank account details and details of your banking transactions with those providers).

Your marketing preferences and related searches

We'll use your business address, phone numbers, and email address to contact you according to your preferences. You can change your preferences or unsubscribe at any time by contacting us.

If you are an individual and over 18, we may search the files at credit reference agencies before sending marketing communications to you about credit. The credit reference agencies don't record this particular search or show it to other lenders and it won't affect your credit rating. We do this as part of our responsible lending obligations which is within our legitimate interests.

As part of our anti-bribery and corruption checks we may conduct an adverse media search on you using publicly available information prior to contacting you.

You confirm that you have been asked about your marketing preferences as part of this application, and if you wish to change these options you can do so at any time.

Criteria used to determine retention periods (whether or not you become a customer)

The following criteria are used to determine data retention periods for your personal data or the personal data of your related persons:

- Retention in case of queries. We'll retain personal data as long as necessary to deal with your queries (e.g. if your application is unsuccessful);
- Retention in case of claims. We'll retain personal data for as long as you might legally bring claims against us; and
- Retention in accordance with legal and regulatory requirements. We'll retain personal data after your account, product or service has been closed or has otherwise come to an end based on our legal and regulatory requirements.

Rights under applicable data protection law

Your or, if applicable, your related persons' rights are as follows (noting that these rights don't apply in all circumstances):

- The right to be informed about our processing of personal data;
- The right to have personal data corrected if it's inaccurate and to have incomplete personal data completed;
- The right to object to processing of personal data;
- The right to restrict processing of personal data;
- The right to have personal data erased (the 'right to be forgotten');
- The right to request access to personal data and information about how we process it;
- The right to move, copy or transfer personal data ('data portability'); and
- Rights in relation to automated decision making including profiling.

You or any of your related persons have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office. It has enforcement powers and can investigate compliance with data protection law: ico.org.uk. For more details on all of the above, including on the Banco Santander group members, you can contact our DPO or request the 'Using My Personal Data' booklet by asking for a copy from your relationship contact point or online at santander.co.uk/corporate.
